

The Alexandra L. Rowan Foundation presents novelist:

ALLISON AMEND

Thursday, April 12, 2018

8:30 p.m. Reading at Frick Fine Arts Auditorium

Followed by a Reception in the Cloister

Free and open to the public

Allison Amend, a graduate of the Iowa Writers' Workshop, is the author of the novels Enchanted Islands, A Nearly Perfect Copy, and Stations West, which was a finalist for the 2011 Sami Rohr Prize for Jewish Literature and the Oklahoma Book Award.

She is also the author of the Independent Publisher's Award-winning short story collection Things That Pass for Love. A former Visiting Assistant Professor at Pitt, she lives in New York City, but remains a die-hard Cubs fan.

Alexandra Rowan is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh's Writing Program. For more information about her life and the Alexandra L. Rowan Memorial Foundation, visit www.alexrowanfoundation.org.